WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. VA.

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., July 19. The only two "typical" resorts in his country are White Sulphur Springs Olis country are White Sulphur Springs and Newport. The former is essentially Southern in its character, and has what the French call an "atmosphere" quite its own, but every year mere people come from the North and West, attracted by the unique history of the place, and those who come as sightseers usually remain, or return again and again.

The "White," as it is known throughout the South, is one of the few places in old times the "quality" came here in their carriages, with their household goods and servants. The fame of the Sulphur Springs and its wonderful limes spread throughout the land; even into the North, for President Adams was a visitor here. Jefferson and Monroe both built cotages here.

MALTA-VITA PURE FOOD CO.

Its Large Factories at Battle Creek and Toronto-Manufacturers of the Celebrated Food, Malta-Vita. Does the public like Malta-Vita?

To answer this question would be but to int out the enormous plant of the Malta-Vita Pure Food Company necessary to sup-mostly by its taste, and once tasted Malta-Vita leaves such a delightful memory that the person is bound to ask for more.

Then Malta-Vita is always within reach of the purse of those of limited means. With Malta-Vita the poorest family may sit down to a dish fit for a King. Combined with sugar, cream, fruit (in fact there are nearly a hundred known combinations to be made with this food product) it makes a perfect dish.

Health follows in the train of Malta-Vita, for its use insures perfect digestion, and some of the signs which show this are clean, white teeth, sweet breath, losy cheeks, bright eyes and a clear, active brain. Indigestion, insomnia and kindred ills cannot stand against its systembuilding elements.

a wee but of the history of Maria-vina may not come amiss to those who have not made its acquaintance. It really begins with the sun and the dew and the rain, the chemical forces at work underground, the seed thrown out by the farmer, fields of waving winter wheat, and the attendant processes of harvesting it.

When Dame Nature has done her best, the finest kerness of the white winter when Dame Nature has done her best, the finest kernels of the white winter wheat are selected and cleaned and scoured until no possible foreign substance could find lodgment. The little boys and girls who est Maita-Vita would not like to be scrubbed as it is scrabbed. Then the wheat is soaked, but its troubles have only just begun. After soaking it is thoroughly cooked by steam under pressure, until all the starch sacks are broken up. Now it is "cured" with much the same effect that is produced upon beefsteak when beef is kept in cold storage.

What next?

Now the thoroughly prepared wheat is ready for the mait, and it is thoroughly impresnated with the diastase of barley (mait extract), making it what its name indicates—a perfect food full of vitality.

During this impregnation the wheat is fiaked by running between heavy steel rull-

During this impregnation the wheat is flaked by running between heavy steel rollers. "Surely it is done now?" some one asks. No, indeed, it is just ready to be baked, and into specially prepared ovens it goes to be thoroughly toasted.
Out of those ovens it comes, hot, crisp and delictous. Then it is carried into the storage bins and kept dry and well protected until it goes, while yet warm, into the packages or cartons. These cartons contain an inside sack or inner seal, so when Malta-Vita is opened in the home hundreds of miles away from the factory, it is absolutely free from contamination by outside substances.

it is absolutely free from contamination by outside substances.

The present Malta-Vita Pure Food Company was organized last January with a capitalization of £500,000. It is the successor to the Battle Creek Pure Food Company. Its officers and Board of Directors include H. N. Higinbotham, Chicago, President: A. C. W.sner. Battle Creek, Vice President; Horace N. Keys, Battle Creek, Secretary; Nell S. children can have some idea of all the pains and labor taken with it. Its manufacturers claim many things for Malta-Vita, and the letters they receive dally from hundreds of persons using it show how well founded is their claim. Some dally from hundreds of persons using it show how well founded is their claim. Some of the reasons why Malta-Vita cannot be excelled are:

It is a delicious food. It is cheap. It insures health. It is perfect in food elements, being whole wheat thoroughly cooked, scientifically cured and impregnated with diastase of barley (mait extract), flaked and toasted—all the food elements necessary to insure perfect growth, sustain life and regulate the system. It has been thoroughly tested by hundreds of thousands of people for nearly two years.

The housewife finds there are nearly one hundred dainty dishes to be made from Malta-Vita, and that one fifteen-cent package contains more food value than a dollar's worth of meat. What the housewife famping, and that is why Malta-Vita is preeminently the family food of the Twentieth Century.—July What-To-Eat.

FROSTBITTEN ON JULY 11. Sought Cure for Hay Fever in Cold Storage Vault.

New York, July 12.—Frost-bitten, while the thermometer struggled to reach the nineties, was the strange experience of Archibald Turner, a prominent Cincinnat, lawyer, who, with his wife and two chill dren, is spending a vacation in this city.

Mr. Turner has for years been subject to hay fever. He was told to try the freezing remedy by a friend, and yesterday visited a cold storage vault on West Broadway a cold storage vault on West Broadway.

Mr. Turner was led to the vault, where the temperature was 8 degrees below zero. He walked up and down for more than an hour briskly to keep the blood in circulation. For the first fifteen minutes it was delightful After that it was uncomfortably cold, but he bore it in the hope of ridding himself of his malady.

Shortly after his release Mr. Turner discovered that his ears and cheeks had become abnormally swollen and inflamed. He had been frost-bliten, but says he has secured at least temporary relief from the hay fever.

INTERESTING GIFTS TO FRENCH MUSEUMS

FRENCH DUEL CAME NEAR BECOMING FOOT RACE

HERALD AND THE ST. LOUIS REPUBLIC. Paris, July 12—(Copyright, 1902.)—As rule, French duels resemble each other, but one just fought between Captain De La Falaise and a journalist named Menage Faialse and a journalist named Menan-was extraordinary. When the fight began the latter began retreating, and by the en-of the third round he had covered 125 me

In the present tropical weather the seconds objected to the duel becoming a foel race, and replaced the men, warning them if they broke more than thirty meters the would be disqualified. M. Menage broke again and the duel was stopped. The process verbal declares that M. Menage broke altogether 155 meters.
